The UNM Cancer Center is one of only

65 centers in the United States to receive site designation from the National Cancer Institute. This prestigious designation allows us to be part of an elite collaborative network that gives New Mexicans access to the latest developments in cancer care. We have also been named by the New Mexico State Legislature as the State's Official Cancer Center. The heart of any cancer center is its doctors and we've brought some of the world's finest cancer specialists to New Mexico. With more than 85 doctors in every cancer specialty, 120 researchers and more than 400 support staff, the UNM Cancer Center has the largest and most experienced team of cancer experts in the state. We want every New Mexican touched by cancer to have access to the compassionate, culturally sensitive, world-class care they deserve.

New Mexico Cancer Plan

The New Mexico Cancer Council works with agencies and individuals throughout the state to develop the New Mexico Cancer Plan. The New Mexico Cancer Plan represents the coordinated efforts of 60 organizations and 112 individuals across the state that came together to develop a document that clarifies the cancer control and prevention needs of New Mexicans. They have generously contributed their expertise, time and forethought to develop a Cancer Plan that is tailored to the unique needs of New Mexicans facing cancer. This is a document developed by New Mexicans for New Mexicans. The New Mexico Cancer Plan serves as a blueprint for cancer control in our state. The current Plan includes seven goals and numerous objectives and strategies that span a continuum of care encompassing prevention, early detection and screening, elimination of disparities, access to care, quality of life and effective coordination and collaboration among organizations that conduct cancer control and prevention programs. Strategies include promoting healthy lifestyle habits, detecting cancers at earlier stages, improving treatments, improving the prognosis and quality of life for cancer patients, and increasing access to health and social services.

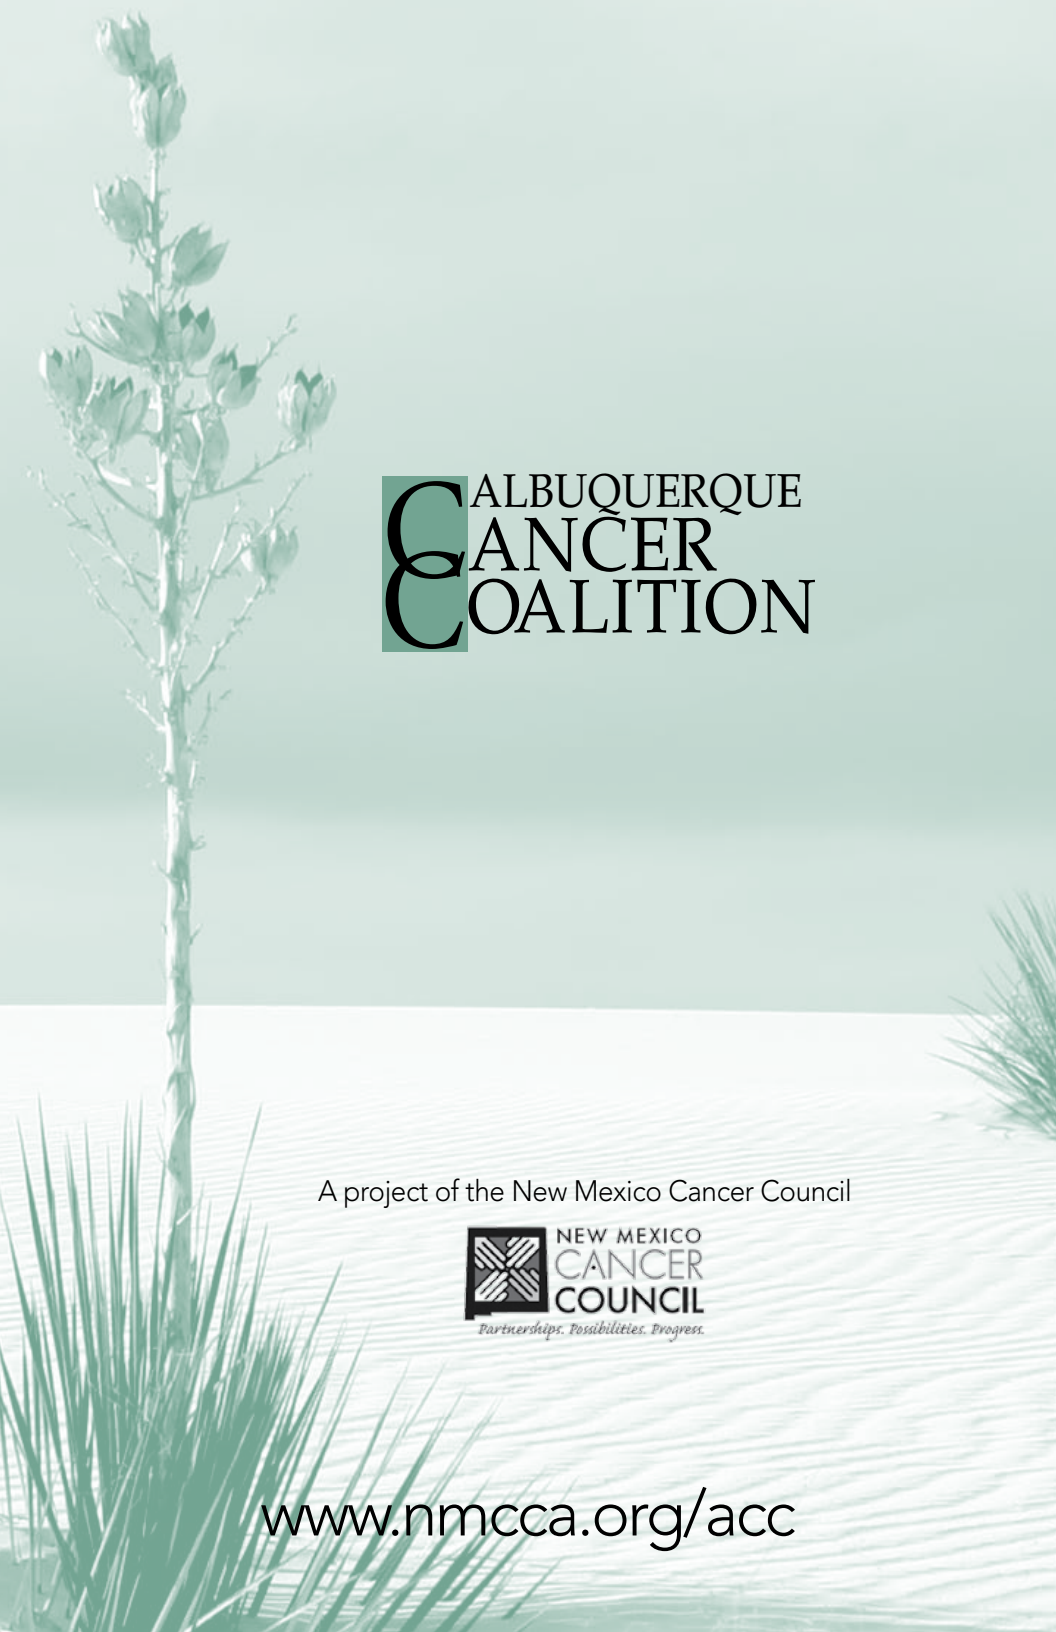

The Plan is intended to be a relevant, timely, user-friendly and valuable tool that can be used by a broad audience including public health practitioners, planners, advocates, educators, medical providers, and others involved in all areas of cancer control in New Mexico. The Plan implementation will include local activities in communities statewide, including collaborative efforts among small groups around specific areas of interest.

New Mexico Cancer Council focused on two specific concerns about cancer in New Mexico in 2010. The New Mexico Cancer Council developed a Fact Sheet for Medical Record Retention, detailing pertinent medical records to keep for people dealing with cancer in their lives. We are also focusing on patient-provider instruments for use by healthcare professionals and patients, New Mexico Cancer Survivorship Plans. These plans detail aspects of diagnosis, treatment, and post-care helpful to inform subsequent healthcare providers of the health status of their patients.

Another key activity of the New Mexico Cancer Council is the 2010 publication of a White Paper, Colorectal Cancer in New Mexico. Designed to inform and educate New Mexicans about colorectal cancer in our state, the 2010 White Paper discusses aspects of diagnosis, treatment, screening, and prevention. This concise document further details the status of colorectal cancer in New Mexico, encompassing issues of cost, insurance, patient health outcomes, and policy concerns. Informative and beneficial to anyone interested in reducing colorectal cancer in New Mexico.
